

The Princeton Photography Club (PPC) will hold its next general meeting on Wednesday, May 11 at 7:30 pm.

Guest speakers Scott and Hella McVay will deliver a presentation entitled “Surprise Encounters with Artists and Scientists, Whales and Other Living Things.”

The presentation title is also the title of Scott McVay’s recently released book. The work is a collaboration of Scott’s writing and Hella McVay’s photography. Scott McVay is founding executive director of the Robert Sterling Clark and Geraldine R. Dodge Foundations, and the 16th president of the Chautauqua Institution. A graduate of Princeton, he discovered and documented the six-octave song of the Humpback whale and, with Roger Payne, published a cover article in Science. He led two expeditions to the Alaskan Arctic to study, record, and film the Bowhead whale; the first led to a cover article in American Scientist, the second to a prize-winning film documentary by the National Film Board of Canada. McVay is the recipient of numerous awards, including: the Albert Schweitzer medal, the Animal Welfare Institute; Joseph Wood Krutch medal, Humane Society of the United States; and an honorary doctorate from Middlebury. His board service includes: World Wildlife Fund, Smithsonian, Bat Conservation International, and now, Knowles Science Teaching Foundation. McVay has a new collection of poetry, Whales Sing and Other Exuberances.

The event is free and open to the public. Light refreshments will be offered.

A Request from Tom Marshall

I'm doing some pro bono photo work in Camden Tuesday afternoon and evening at the Gordon Theater on the Rutgers Camden campus. A gala is being put on by the 5 Catholic grade schools in Camden with musical and other performances from around 4:30 to 8 pm.

I need help getting all the shots requested (from stage wings, audience, close ups and groups). Would you help me find a volunteer by sending an email to all PPC members asking anyone interested to call or email me to discuss. I can provide transportation.

The schools do a great job of educating the poor kids of Camden and deserve our help.

Many thanks for any assistance you might provide.

Tom Marshall
